At the recent PMI Global Congress, Mark Langley, President & CEO, PMI said,

"The role of the project manager is rapidly changing to the role of a business leader. That's good news, IF you're ready."

Are YOU ready?

Where do you get the most out of your professional development dollars? According to PMI’s “Navigating Complexity Study,” what were the most important skills to successfully manage highly complex projects?

Answer: Leadership: 81% with technical and strategic and business management skills coming in at only 9% each.

About the Course Facilitator:

The Facilitator for the Reno Leadership Excellence Course will be Bob White. Bob is a 1986 graduate of the United States Military Academy with a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Engineering Management. In 1991, Bob earned a Master's of Science Degree from the University of La Verne in Business Organizational Management. Bob served in various leadership positions in the US Army while stationed in America's last frontier, Alaska. As a junior officer, Bob specialized in the field of logistics and maintenance. He was selected for an early command, and provided training and leadership for the US Garrison Company in support of Fort Greely, Alaska.

Bob left active duty as a Captain in 1991 and started his civilian career as a Human Resources Professional.
Over the next 20 plus years, Bob accumulated leadership experience in public and private sector organizations including: public school systems; state and local governments; casino, food and beverage establishments; and manufacturing, distribution and sales operations. Bob's strength lies in business management, human resources operations, personnel hiring, training, supervision and motivation, program development, team building, mediation and conflict resolution, budgeting and cost control. Bob has experience in helping managers with strong personalities and diverging points of views work together as an effective team and achieve measureable results.

Bob is certified through the Human Resources Certification Institute as a Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR). He is a past president and board member of the Sierra Nevada Human Resources Association, a former member of the State of Nevada Governor's Council on Vocational Rehabilitation, and the past director and assistant director of the Carson-Tahoe Nevada Harley Owners Group. He resides in Carson City, Nevada with his wife, Heidi.

About Academy Leadership:

Founded in 2000, Academy Leadership is an elite consulting and training firm that specializes in leader development. We are a group of Senior Military Officers who became successful business leaders following their military careers. We convert managers at all levels into passionate leaders who create a positive, enthusiastic, and supportive environment in which their team members can be successful.

Our process is based on methods used by West Point and the Naval Academy leadership development programs. We combined these strategies with today's successful corporate leadership philosophies to create corporate and individual leadership training programs that produce measurable results.

Academy Leadership delivers a comprehensive, no-nonsense program for senior executives and program managers in any industry, in any size organization. Our Clients range from small consulting firms to the largest companies in the world including Allstate, Bank of America, Boeing, Booz Allen Hamilton, Fidelity, General Mills, IBM, Johnson & Johnson, Kellogg, Microsoft, Motorola, Oracle, Pfizer, Procter & Gamble, Southwest Airlines, Staples, UPS, Verizon and Wells Fargo.
